

Project Background

Funded by UNICEF, this project aimed to enhance child survival and development in Karamoja by empowering caregivers and influential leaders at various community levels. AFLI's efforts focused on creating budgetary space for children and strengthening leaders' capacities to advocate for children's rights and deliver essential social services.

Goal

The project aimed to contribute to sustained child survival and development in Karamoja by empowering caregivers and leaders to prioritize children's health and well-being.

Results and Achievements

1. Adoption of Karamoja Declaration for Children: Established a social contract with traditional and formal leadership at various levels, committing to children's rights and protection.
2. Improved Child Health Indicators: Notable improvements were seen in child survival and maternal health indicators, such as increased school enrollment, immunization rates, and access to health services.
3. Enhanced Advocacy and Behavioral Change: The project increased uptake of key health messages and behavioral changes among caregivers, reducing child labor and domestic violence against children.
